Supporting BC Ministry of Health Research Priorities

COVID 19 has presented numerous opportunities for researchers to undertake studies that help address our current knowledge gaps in health research. The BC Ministry of Health COVID-19 Research Grants are designed to enable BC researchers to engage in work to address pressing research priorities. The initial call for 2020 includes 10 priorities and future funding calls will include an expanded set of priorities. This grant is expected to continue annually pending funding.

The BC Ministry of Health is inviting the BC research community to help address urgently needed programs of research as part of their recent Research and Knowledge Mobilization Strategy. Applicants are encouraged to obtain a copy of the priorities from the Research Development Manager to obtain additional information re. identify potential research questions, and projects underway at other institutions/potential collaborators.

Applications to this program must address one or more of the below priorities:

- 1) The effectiveness of social distancing on different communities
- 2) Protecting and strengthening youth and child health during the pandemic
- 3) Mental health in virtual care
- 4) Safe staffing models within a pandemic
- 5) Access to mental health care: Rapid analysis of population-based administrative data
- 6) Impact of COVID-19 on BC's public drug plan
- 7) Psychological health and safety supports for healthcare professionals
- 8) Substance Use Supports in Congregate Housing
- 9) Staff time lost waiting for negative health workforce test results
- 10) Action-research (in real time, with learning applied immediately and ongoing study and adaptation), on: long term care and hospital interventions, community outbreaks, school resumption and outbreaks, HHR implications
