PROPOSAL EVALUATION PROCESS

The process for securing a Time Award(s) is competitive. Each proposal is evaluated by the VIUFA Leave Committee based on eligibility requirements expressed in the Collective Agreement and how closely it meets the established criteria. Evaluation criterion has been included for your information in this package. Please note the importance of following the application instructions and including appropriate supporting documentation.

HUMAN ETHICS AND ANIMAL CARE CERTIFICATIONS

If your assisted leave will involve research with human participants or animals, please note that it is your responsibility to explore whether ethics approval or an animal use protocol is required, and to follow the Vancouver Island University processes outlined at <http://www.viu.ca/reb/> or <http://www.viu.ca/animalcare/>.

TIME AWARD EVALUATION CRITERIA

To assist faculty in the preparation of their applications, the Committee would like faculty to be aware that proposals will be evaluated and ranked using the following criteria:

Quality and Clarity

An application “headed for success” should provide an excellent summary and be marked by an overall appearance that is deemed outstanding. The applicant should:

- Use clear, unambiguous language. Unfamiliar terms and concepts must be defined. The proposal must be clear enough for a generalist to understand it. It is particularly important that the methodologies specific to the applicant’s scholarly activities be explained carefully.
- Establish a clear, well-conceived timeline and context for the proposed scholarly activity. The applicant has obviously thought a great deal about the activities to be conducted during the leave and planned their schedule accordingly.
- Invest considerable time in the clear organization and logical flow of your proposal.
- Ensure no errors (typos or facts). The proposal should show evidence that it has been proofread carefully many times.
- Present a thoughtful, challenging, and innovative leave proposal that inspires confidence and sparks the interest and imagination of the review committee. Committee members have fun reading an enthusiastically written, carefully crafted, and polished proposal!
- Clearly establish the significance and timeliness of the proposed scholarly activity; support with Bibliographic references
- Prepare your application with the intended audience in mind, i.e. the review committee. Anticipate questions and provide the answers.
- Provide a balance between realism and ambition. The applicant should demonstrate convincingly that the proposed scholarly activity is “doable.” Specific intended outcomes should be provided.

Professional Benefits

A successful application should:

- Clearly establish that the proposed reassignment is of professional benefit. The applicant should have convincingly established the relevance of the proposed activity to their professional growth as a scholar in his/her discipline, such as engaging in scholarly writing, in studies of educational systems, in collaborative research opportunities, or participating in conference presentations or new experiences relevant to their role within the VIU community.
- Clearly explain how the proposed scholarly activity enhances the reputation of Vancouver Island University. An application should show evidence, for example, that the applicant is intending to further their academic studies, to engage in scholarly writing, to present at professional society conferences, to write research grants, or that the reassignment activity will enhance the level of services provided, all of which serve to promote the reputation of VIU as an institution and support the importance of faculty scholarly activity.

Enhancement of Offerings in Applicant's Discipline

A successful application should:

- Clearly explain how the proposed scholarly activity will enhance the offerings in the applicant's discipline or field.

Supporting Documentation and Curriculum Vitae

A successful application should:

- Provide a current, carefully prepared curriculum vitae. The CV should indicate:
 - a. past productivity, and
 - b. contributions to VIU, e.g., committee work.
- Ensure that the CV highlights past productivity and provides evidence of scholarly activity that demonstrates the applicant's abilities to conduct the proposed scholarly activities.
- Provide letters in support of the proposed activities. If your proposal is going to require support from another department, a letter of support would be required with your application.
